A giant stuffed animal has come to visit. I dreamed it up, and suddenly it crawled out from under the bed. If you can see it too, let's play together!

Imaginary Friend is a gentle, playful walkabout. A towering soft toy on stilts wanders through the crowd looking for friends to play with. For all ages, by day or night.

A friend who stays

Some imaginary friends stay with us all our lives. Imaginary Friend takes to the street ready to play at any age, and a stuffed-toy hug melts the distance between strangers in a moment.

In the square, a moment of shared play becomes a small collective therapy against loneliness. And Imaginary Friend bets on colour, round shapes and ornament, at a time when clothes, furniture and buildings keep getting greyer, straighter and plainer.

Formats

1. Bedtime: an acrobat carrying a cassette boombox is looking for a place to sleep. First comes an elaborate bedtime ritual: stretching, jumping, calisthenics, climbing, breakdance and choreographies with the audience. Finally they fall asleep on top of their favourite stuffed toy.
2. With live music: a wind musician (sax, trumpet or euphonium) improvises sounds and melodies that follow the action.
3. Solo: the stilt creature and games with the audience.
