EL JOC ETERN (working title)

Cia. VENDAVAL · Work in progress

Format	Roaming street show with an electric mobile stage
Disciplines	Live music, stilts, unicycle, clown and participatory games
Audience	All ages
Duration	60 min (in progress)
Cast	8 performers

The project

How does a group of strangers, each on the way somewhere else, end up playing, moving and making music together in the middle of a street?

Three sea creatures, part clownesque, part mythical, are searching for the Eternal Game, a magical relic that lets whoever touches it play forever. They invite everyone they meet to join the search. A crew of eight performers, each with their own character, travels with Windy: a three-wheeled electric Vespa towing a boat where the drummer rides. Two clownesque stilt-walkers (one with a trumpet) and a unicyclist play with the band and the audience. The band is conducted with hand signals, so every performance is composed in front of the audience.

The show grows out of VENDAVAL Brass, the roaming band we have toured with since 2025 in Catalonia, Andorra and Germany.

Where we are

El Joc Etern is a work in progress.

- Games: we test participatory games in our VENDAVAL Brass shows. The next step is a research period to create and test 10–15 games that work in any language, and to write the dramaturgy from what really works in the street.
- Characters: each performer is developing a character, with a name, a way of walking and a way of greeting people through sound.

Dragons run through the whole world of the show: small dragons worn as bracelets or in the hair, and tails on some of the musicians.

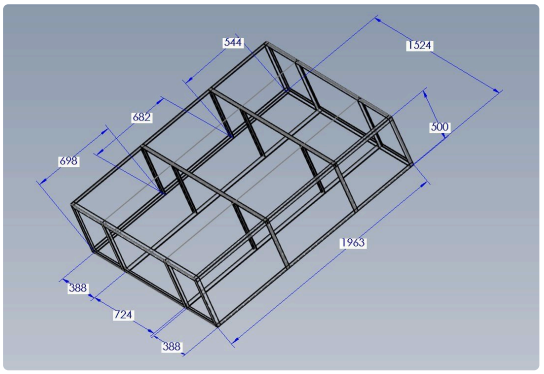

Two larger figures are planned as separate productions, which can also tour as stand-alone walkacts. They will go ahead only with funding:

- Ani Arqui, the Pacific (the Sea Giant): an ocean demon-god about 3 m tall, an aquatic robot in Neptune style with an anime look. They carry a carnyx, a 2 m medieval trumpet heard across the streets. The carnyx once called to war, but this giant comes in peace, to play music and games with the dragonfolk.
- The Dragon: either a flying puppet or a four-legged stilt dragon 3–4 m tall, whose animatronic head and wings are worked by a second performer.

The concept dossier for Ani Arqui is available on request. The premiere will follow the research period.

Windy

Windy is the show's mobile stage: a three-wheeled Vespa converted into an electric vehicle, towing a boat where the drummer rides. Uli Weigel is building the trailer and stage, and Pepe Ferros the electric vehicle. The motor and batteries are fitted. The steering still needs fixing, the vehicle needs decorating, and we have not yet rehearsed with it.

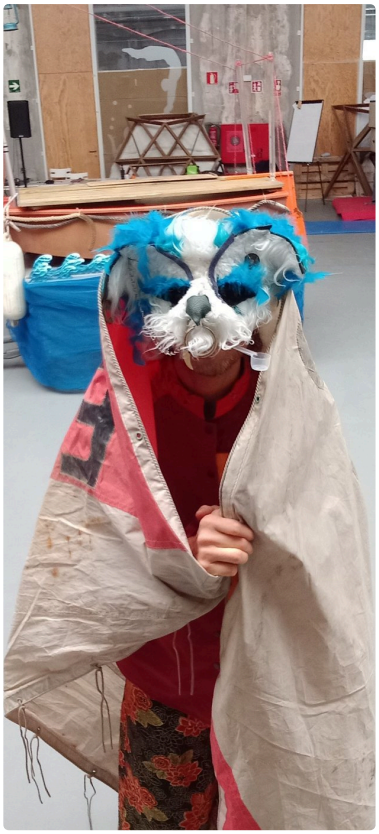

The masks

In parts of the story we use fantasy animal masks, inspired by cartoons and by each performer's personality:

- Captain Owlcat (Mussolgat), half owl, half cat
- the punk rat on drums
- Comandante Fregui Miau, a mop-haired cat

More masks are in construction.

What we are looking for

- Funding and co-production: partners to fund the research, Windy and the premiere.
- Long-term residencies: our team is available on some days of the week, so we work best with a regular residency of 1 or 2 days a week over several months, rather than one intensive week.
- Collaboration with differently abled people: organisations, special schools, day centres and individuals who want to test the games with us and shape them from the start.
- Show and workshop together: venues and schools that want to combine the performance with workshops before or after it.

For all bodies and minds

Instead of adapting the games afterwards, we ask how an accessible game can be the game. We want to test:

- touch tours of Windy, the costumes and the instruments
- vibration the whole audience can feel
- sign language as a game, using the band's conducting signals as real signs (LSC, LSE or BSL), guided by Deaf signers tyle fernández trained in "Un circ universal: accessibilitat, inclusió i diversitat funcional" (Ateneu Nou Barris, 2026). The project follows the Universal Design of Social Circus guide (DUCS) by Ateneu Popular 9 Barris.

Show and workshops

The games of El Joc Etern can also be offered as workshops. We are looking for schools, special schools, day centres, civic centres and festivals that want to combine the show with workshops in stilts, clown, juggling and balance, soap bubbles, recycled instruments, circular breathing or conducting with hand signals. Workshop dossiers on request.

Our artists have long experience in teaching. tyle fernández has led social-circus workshops and camps in more than 20 countries, including with Deaf and autistic young people, and has run a weekly theatre group for older people with different abilities. Albert Pérez and Jordi Torrens (Cia. Filigranes) are founding members of the Tub d'assaig circus school and have worked with Pallassos sense Fronteres.

Team

- tyle fernández: artistic direction, stilts, trumpet, accordion, games
- Albert Pérez: stilts, clown
- Jordi Torrens: unicycle, clown
- Alián Rodrigues: sousaphone
- Juan Lichter: alto sax
- Stefano Ferraro: tenor sax
- Lucas Raiquen Pereyra: trumpet
- Facundo Fernández Alberdi: drums

Mobile stage: Uli Weigel · Electric vehicle: Pepe Ferros · Costumes: Imaginario de Monica · Graphic design: bicialta · Photography: David Ugalde, Jordi Largo

Track record

- 2024: music residency and dance masterclass with Dada Draženka Večerin, Ateneu la Bòbila (Barcelona)
- 2025: VENDAVAL Brass premiere, Festes de Porta, Ateneu la Bòbila (Barcelona)
- 2026: El Joc Etern residency, Tub d'assaig (Terrassa) · Unterwegs Theater Festival (DE) · Fira del Vapor · Sommerwerft Theater Festival, Frankfurt am Main (DE) · Circ Rural, Capafonts

Contact

tyle fernández {they}
VENDAVAL@anartist.org · +34 644 389 757 · www.VENDAVAL.cat

Bookings and invoicing through the circus association Tub d'assaig 7.70 (Terrassa).

Supported by